HUMOR IN WAR

Not a Cavalry Charge—Just a Threshing Machine

A London correspondent writes: "There was once a thrilling episode just behind the first line of trenches which attracted the covetous eye of a certain engineer officer. It was standing in some farm buildings, most of which had been knocked to pieces by the enemy's shells, but by one of those fantastic freaks of chance so common in this war, the wall of the shed that hid it from the enemy was still untouched and the engine waited. It was only a few yards from the shed door to the high road, and the engineer officer vowed to carry off the engine out of the German range, thinking with glee of the many useful services to which he could apply it. The first thing was to borrow a gun team; the second to find a few rock-ledge spirits like himself. When night fell they carefully prepared a path from the shed down to the road. Then they brought their horses, with feet shod in iron from the rear, and harnessed them to a long rope, of which the further end was firmly fixed to the engine.

"The horses' feet were then unshod. A few cautious tugs brought the engine out of the shed down a little incline into the road. The commotion roused the German sentinels, and a steady snuffing of the far too vivid light on the proceedings. There was no further need for concealment and the artillery horses, urged to their utmost with whip and spur, dashed off at a wild gallop along the road, while, creaking, grinding and away, they followed behind them the threshing engine. What impressed the noise of the horses' hoofs made the Germans in their trenches it is impossible to say. They probably thought it was a cavalry charge. At any rate, they passed a wakeful night, brooding continually into intermittent bursts of firing, while the engine, unscathed, was carried out of jeopardy into a place of safety, where it furnished the motive power for an electric light installation.

NIGHT "HELLO" GIRLS

Beds and Breakfasts at the Exchange in England

Four hundred and twenty women are taking the night duty at the London telephone exchanges. "The spirit of the women on our staff is magnificent," said an official. "They are scared them from duty." During their tuition the girls receive $4 a week. When they are present they get $7. Each girl works forty-eight hours of two-hour duty each day. She has two nights on duty, followed by two nights off; then two nights' duty and one off. Of her twelve hours of duty half an hour is allowed for supper, two hours for rest—beds are provided—and in the morning half an hour is allowed for breakfast, provided by the exchange.

"When we have a warning of a possible Zeppelin raid," added the telephone official, "there is a rush of business. We have arrangements in which we can bring in an emergency station in some cases. There is a house where there is a telephone have volunteered to warn the others. The moment she receives a code word she rides round on her bicycle to rouse her colleagues. We have 50 to 60 per cent. of the girls on duty within half an hour of the call being sent out."

Kindness For War Horses

Soldiers who have the management of war horses know how useful it is for them to be gentle and obedient. A vicious or timid horse might cause an accident in a battle, and this is so thoroughly understood nowadays in training army horses that only kindness is allowed to be used," says Mrs. Florence H. Sackling, in her lecture on "The Horse." "It is rare, indeed, to hear of a violent trooper, while a soldier who is found beating or bullying his horse is very likely to be summarily punished. This more reasonable and humane management is a saving to the country, as the horses last longer and there are fewer accidents. As soon as a horse is restive inquiries are made into the character of its rider, on the principle of the old maxim: 'Tell me the temper of a trooper's horse and I will tell you the character of the soldier.'"

Britain Prescribes New Decoration For Heroes Of War

A British army order states that the following distinctions in dress will be worn on the service dress jacket by all officers and soldiers who have been wounded in any of the campaigns since August 4, 1914: Stripes of gold Russia braid, No. 1, two inches in length, worn perpendicular on the left sleeve of the jacket to mark each occasion on which wounded.

In the case of officers the lower end of the first strip of gold braid will be placed on the upper point of the flap on cuff. "Warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men will wear the gold braid on the left sleeve, the lower edge of the braid to be three inches from the bottom of the sleeve. The additional stripes of gold braid, marking each subsequent occasion on which wounded, will be placed on either side of the original one at half-inch intervals. Gold braid and sewings are obtained free on indent from the War Office Department; the sewing will be carried out regimentally without expense to the public.

Nationalized Shops

It is the intention of the New South Wales Government to nationalize the liquor trades. The success attendant upon the establishment of government shops for retailing fish will lead to the establishment as early as possible of a number of State monopolies, including meat, bread, petrol, and other commodities.

THE BLESSING OF A HEALTHY BODY

Has Not Had An Hour's Sickness Since Taking "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

MR. MARRIOTT
75 Lees Ave., Ottawa, Ont.,
August 9th, 1916.
"I think it my duty to tell you what 'Fruit-a-lives' has done for me. Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-lives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 38 years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-lives', and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain."

"M. P. FOR THE AIR"

Billing Wants A Vigorous Air Offensive At Once

Whether we agree or not with the views of Mr. Pemberton-Billing, the fact is that as he is termed, no one can doubt his earnestness, courage, and practical knowledge of aviation. It was Mr. Billing who, in the early days of the war, headed a most successful air raid against the Germans on Lake Constance. Later, he was appointed to an important office in the Flying Corps and was in aircraft service in this country, and it was on account of his dissatisfaction with the want of organization to meet the repeated damage and increasing danger from Zeppelin air raids that he resigned his office and entered Parliament to do what he could to make England a first instance of a third of second-rate air power.

Before he entered the Flying Corps Mr. Pemberton-Billing had a career crowded with adventures. He was both a soldier and a sailor, and before taking part in the South African War as a member of the Staff of General Buller he had participated in several of the most stirring and practical knowledge of ships is remarkable, for he has sailed and commanded every kind of vessel. He has raced motor-boats; took out the first motor-car to South Africa; and shot his game. After leaving the army he designed aeroplanes with which he has made many fine flights.

The fact that Mr. Pemberton-Billing made his maiden speech within a couple of hours of taking his seat in the House is characteristic of the energy of the man. Mr. Billing is one who believes that we have the most machines to fight any German raiders, provided our air service is more efficiently organized. "We have it," he says, "to those priceless men who at the beginning of the war went up with their motor-machines and made raids on the enemy's country that have a vigorous air offensive without delay."

It was generally understood, of course, that the Crown in time of war has the right to take over lands or buildings it considered necessary. "We have it," he says, "to those priceless men who at the beginning of the war went up with their motor-machines and made raids on the enemy's country that have a vigorous air offensive without delay."

CROWN'S RIGHTS IN WAR

LAUDS BRITISH AIRMAN

Frenchman Says Even Germans Admit Enemy Superiority

This was how a French officer, sent back from the Somme, described the British flying champion in the course of an interview with an English newspaperman. In admiring words he related how the British have wrested the mastery of the air from German hands. "The British have aviators who have come to their own at last, and France to-day salutes them as the lords of the air."

"Even the German fliers who have been captured by us have had the civility to admit that the British airmen have accomplished some noteworthy performances." Not only have your intrepid aviators done far better than the German defences and defied the anti-aircraft guns, but they have taken them by surprise and beaten off as many as three and four Fokkers at a time.

The German fliers, who, months ago, looked with contempt on your army, respect and admire them as the result of bitter experience. That great young British aviator who sent Captain Immelman to his death has become a terror to the Boche. You ought to have him on all your placards."

HOW COL SHAW DIED

Canadian Officer Ties To His Men at Ypres

Beckler-Wilson writes: After the June attack officers were huddling their men together in places of uncertain sanctity. Colonel Shaw of the Canadian Mounted Rifles directed the attack. He was a tall, slender man, a little shallow square. When it became too hot there, he forced them all out there. He was a total stranger to them. He himself refused to leave his wounded men, but he remained so valiantly at his post until a shell struck him and he was killed.

Immelmann Abatined

Berlin reports: In one of his last lone flights he was shot down by an air pilot, Lieutenant Immelman, Fokker champion, wrote to a friend before he was shot down. He had been from liquor, "having taken occasion to observe that even the smallest quantity of alcoholic liquor lessened one's capacity to reach quick decisions, thinking power, and presence of mind."

POWER OF SUNLIGHT

Sun Creates Bone and Loosens Shell Fragments

A Swiss doctor, in attendance on wounded soldiers writes as follows: "What doctor a few years back would have imagined that the sun could reform lost bones? Yet this miracle is actually being performed in the case of British soldiers interned here. The process of bone formation by the sun is extremely slow, but the fact remains that bones shattered by shell or surgically removed are being replaced by new bone substance.

Spitters and minute particles of shell whose presence in the body had defied detection by the Roentgen rays are not only detected but actually loosened and eventually removed by the sun, while defective blood circulation, frequently occasioned by bullet wounds, is remedied. An Irish soldier arrived at Chateau d'Orx with a fracture in one of the principal bones of the left arm which had defied treatment by several eminent German surgeons. Examination at Chateau d'Orx showed that portions of the bone were missing, and to-day a new bone has been formed and saved for a little soldier the arm is almost normal."

A Scotman arrived with his right arm paralyzed, so often due to nervous shock. Daily exposed to the sun during the winter months, he is entirely removed the paralysis. An officer who lost a shinbone "somewhere in France" while watching not in fighting operations of the formation of a new bone. The doctors believe that the bone will be entirely restored before long.

JARVIS-SCHULZ HARNESS CO. LIMITED

Gaetz Ave. South opposite's Lord's

Letters from the Front.

Somewhere in France,

May 15th, 1917.

The following letter was received by Mrs. A. G. Bagley from her grandson, Wm. Taite, of the 89th Battalion:

Dear Grandma:

I want to thank you for the nice little box which I received some days ago. It was so very kind of you and good of you and the girls to remember me, it was just great and I appreciate it so much. It seems to me as if I can never thank you enough for all the nice things you all have done for me.

Now, dear Grandma, I know that you would like to hear, perhaps, something about Willie, but then I never was much of a hand to talk about myself.

I am very well, and I must say getting along great so far. I have a fairly good job now as Company clerk, I like it fine and it is so much nicer than doing line work. I was recommended for it by an officer, one of the nicest fellows that I have ever met. He and I were great pals so to speak, while in the trenches. We two certainly used to have some great talks about the "West" and other parts. He came out here from Edmonton. When the big offensive started in April he was wounded in the leg and was invalided to England.

I also have been promoted, and am now a "Lance-Corporal," so is Cliff Maloney, but Cliff has been in the hospital for some time now. He left the trenches with what is known here as trench fever, he is getting along fine. I think he will soon be coming back again. His brother is over here now. I have not seen him but some of the boys have. He is with the Band of the 16th Battalion, just think, in "Kilts." Ha, ha, some clasp to Roy.

Reg Taylor came over in a draft on April 31st, and is with the Battalion.

You might mention to Mr. W. R. Atkins, that his son, Lance Corporal G. F. Atkins, who, while on active service, was killed on the night of April 28th, was buried by his comrades, who wish me to extend their deepest sympathy to his parents. George was a good soldier and a fine comrade, respected and loved by all who knew him.

The Canadians won great praise for themselves in the month of April, things which will do much to put down in history. The French Government attributed great praise, and today so far the Canadian troops rank first at the front. There is no existence according to their number. Only civilians, but sure soldiers, and all they know is to go ahead. I hope this does not sound like bravado, for honestly, it is a fact. A number of the boys of the Battalion have been awarded decorations for bravery on the field.

One fellow, a very small little chap, received the "D.C.M." He, single handed, captured two big Germans.

We are having delightful weather here at last: it's just great. Sunshine all day long with a shower of rain now and then just to keep things cool. We are out of the trenches for a short time for rest, and we are sure taking all the advantages of it. It is so nice now after putting in such a long wet and dreary winter. The boys enjoy themselves after work hours and evenings playing football, base ball and at other outdoor sports. There is besides them, a picture show which is run by the Y.M.C.A., so you may judge for yourself that at present we are all getting along fine. We are billeted in a little town, the place itself is just like the majority of the French towns that I have seen, but then the surrounding country is just beautiful. The fields are so green, and the crops are coming up fine, flowers in bloom, it just makes one feel as if this is a queer world after all.

Those times spent in Red Deer were great times for Willie, and I shall always remember them, not as it makes much difference to any one outside of myself, I often wonder how strange it was that I was sent to that town at first, you know I did not like the place at all, but I just got to like it more and more, or perhaps it was the people there.

Lots of love, from

WILLIE

Mrs. A. P. Neilson has received the following letter from her brother, Arthur Fisher:

Somewhere in France,

May 5th, 1917

I am pleased to say that I am enjoying my normal health now since the severe winter has passed and gone. The weather has been fine and dry for some weeks now, which makes it easier to carry on the big fight, and a big fight it is, believe me. The din and noise of battle is almost incessant and so violent at times as to shake the earth for miles around.

A few weeks ago a shell landed right into my dug-out. Fortunately for me I was just then on the outside and did not get a scratch, although my tent was home was terribly wrecked with everything inside of it. My jacket, hanging on the sand-bagged wall, was torn to bits, although the photos, pay-book and other things in the pockets were all right. My rifle was smashed to atoms. I have only a piece of the stock left with the butt-plate all twisted up attached. I was only eight feet from where the shell exploded. The fact that the shell penetrated the roof and detonated only after going deep into the bottom of the dug-out, doubtless, saved my life. From the sound of our men the enemy must be getting a terrible shaking up.

MCKENZIE-YEATS

A quiet but pretty wedding took place Friday at the manse, East Calgary, when Mr. Finlay McKenzie, of Chinook, and Miss Janet Graham, of Chinook and formerly of Red Deer, were united in marriage by Rev. A. McFargart. The couple were attended by Mr. Geo. Yeats, of 1123, 9th Street East, Calgary.

After the wedding the party adjourned to the Palliser Hotel, where dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie stayed at the Palliser until Saturday, when they left for a honeymoon trip to the coast via the Crow's Nest Pass. On their return they will reside at Chinook. The bride's many friends in Red Deer wish the newly married couple every happiness.

ARTHUR.

Red Deer Wedding

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. White, of Poplar road, Red Deer, on Wednesday noon, when their eldest daughter, Edna Alice, was united in marriage to Roy George Downing, of Carmangay district, by the Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer. The bride, who was handsomely gowned in a silver grey tulle dress, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of white roses and green fern, entered the parlor on the arm of her father, while Mrs. W. Denmark played the Wedding March. The bride's sister, Miss Annie White, was a charming bride's maid, carrying pink roses and fern, while the bridesmaid was attended by Mr. Harry Denmark.

After the wedding breakfast, the wedding party motored out to Sylvan Lake. Among the party were several ladies from Carmangay. After returning from the Lake, the bride and groom took the 6.30 train for Vancouver and other coast cities on a short honeymoon, after which they will reside at the groom's farm near Carmangay. The young people wound up the sunny day with a dance.

The bride was remembered by many friends with a varied and valuable array of wedding gifts. Among these was a check from her father, and a set of pearl handled knives and forks from Mrs. White. Mrs. Downing has been teaching at Crossroads and Poplar Ridge, and the people of these school districts, as well as old friends at Carmangay and Red Deer, will join in wishing her and Mr. Downing a long and happy wedded life.

Picnic to Sylvan Lake

The first joint excursion and picnic of the Sunday Schools of Red Deer was held at Sylvan Lake on Wednesday afternoon and could hardly have been a greater success. The weather was perfect, and about 450 were on board the special train. Station Agent Gunn and Conductor Townsend spared no effort to contribute to the convenience and pleasure of the visitors: the Conductor's tug-of-war team, composed principally of C.P.R. men, put it over the Sylvan Lake youths in two straight pulls. Though some provision had been made for other games, the lake, the ice cream, and the evening races filled the bill to the limit. Rev. L. E. Brough, head of the Refreshment Committee, with the able assistance of Mr. Shelton and the ladies, had lemonade and tea for all, each family having its own basket. Mr. Brown and L. Dover captained the races which gave all kinds of zest and fun, and Mr. Porter was financial manager. A most pleasing feature of the event was the presence of a number of country groups. To Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson, of the hotel, Mr. Mitchell and other residents of the village, the sincere thanks of the picnickers are due for many courtesies.

Comus Players Coming to Chautauqua

In presenting the Comus Players to Chautauqua audiences this season patrons are assured of a competent company, able to give true expression to the best in dramatic art. The play chosen by the Comus Players as being specially suited for Chautauqua production is "Carson of the North Woods." It is a stirring drama of the French Canadian around Quebec. The story of the play is rich in pathos and

IFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called frezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Frezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of frezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any frezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

Every summer-fallow should be well prepared for a big 1918 crop. The duty of Canada to the Empire and her Allies is to produce food—and still more food.

AMERICAN WHEAT CROP

The wheat crop in the United States this year will fall far beyond normal, according to the Department of Agriculture. A total yield, estimated at 650 million bushels, will give the country sixteen million more bushels than last year's crop, but with the heavy demands from abroad and virtually no reserve stores, it will not meet war needs unless the country practices the most rigid economy.

Herbert C. Hoover, who will be Food Administrator under the Food Control Bill, pending in Congress, estimates the allies' needs this year at one billion bushels of grain, most of it to come from the United States and Canada.

FARMING FOR SOLDIERS

The Province of Ontario is doing all it can to get returned soldiers to go on the land. In the Townships of O'Brien and Owen some 300 square miles have been selected for a settlement. The soil is said to be a good day, covered with green bush, slightly rolling and well watered.

Each veteran who wishes to farm will be given eighty acres, and ten acres of it will be cleared by the Government, and buildings and machinery will be provided on easy terms of payment. There is an experimental farm at Monteville, and here the veterans will be taught how to farm before they venture upon their own land.

Sole Remaining Out-Post before Lille

Canadian Headquarters in France, June 23.—The furious resistance offered by the enemy to any further advance along the Souchez valley in the direction of Lens indicates his intention to hold that city at all costs as a sole remaining outpost protecting Lille and the great industrial region of which Lille is the centre. A little over two months ago the enemy's hold appeared to be as secure as at any time since the beginning of the war.

The two ridges, Messines about ten miles northwest and Vimy about eighteen miles southwest of Lille, were held in such strength that their inpenetrability was subject to frequent boasting. Now both Vimy and Messines ridges are firmly in our possession and to the northeast of Lille the advance has been pushed almost to the bank of the Lys, which is a poor defensive substitute for the commanding heights surrendered to the impetuous assault of Haig's army. The progress in the south has been less spectacular but nevertheless it is important. The enemy's defenses are unquestionably crumbling beneath the unceasing shell fire. The picturesque picture of an officer is "we have been throwing foundries and munition plants at the Bosche."

TRYING TO RECOVER GROUND

The capture early in the week of a small triangle of German trenches west of Messines, which has been loved by most persistent clowns on the part of the enemy to recover the lost ground. On the front south of the Souchez stream the enemy has been equally unopposed. Gas shells have been freely used by both sides. This involves the frequent use of gas masks. The gas shells are more often discharged by night than in the day time. On other parts of the line prisoners have been captured who were recently serving in eastern Europe. There is a marked increase in the number of young lads in the enemy trenches. Recently a few boys have been captured of the 1914 class who are immature lads of eighteen.

Nineteen Shots Fired When Sub. Sank

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Confirmation of the sinking of a German submarine by the navy gunner crew of an armed American merchantman, mentioned in yesterday's dispatches, was received today by the navy department in a report from Chief Boatwain's Mate O. G. Gullikson, commanding the gunners. Apparently the submarine was either sunk or badly damaged, his report says, "as nothing further was seen of it."

The wireless operator of the steamer, in a story written to-day, describing the battle with the submarine said the submarine was about 200 yards off our starboard. "Suddenly came the command: 'Man the guns.'"

"The gun crew scrambled to the deck. They ran fore and aft to their respective positions. The third gunner gave them their ranges from the bridge."

A PRETTY BATTLE

"When about 600 yards off our starboard quarter a shell from our forward gun hit her and she submerged. Again she appeared and our after gun hit her and blew away her periscope. Another shot from our forward gun fell right on top of her. There was a shower of black specks which rose high in the air followed by a great commotion, bubbles of water and a light blue smoke arising from the stern of the U-boat where a second before had been the eyes of our enemy."

"Our crew which was lined up against the starboard rail watching the battle, gave a hearty cheer when the submarine disappeared."

"Nineteen shots in all were fired which is the secretary of the navy's military salute."

CAUGHT IN THE BUSH

WINNIPEG, June 28.—Thomas Fletcher, who escaped on Tuesday from the Portage La Prairie jail where he was being held on a charge of murdering Gordon Rasmussen, a Winnipeg boy, at Carberry, has been captured. He was found in morning hiding in the bush a mile from Burnside, Man.

Neglected and Dependent Children

It is the business of the Department of Neglected and Dependent Children of Alberta to conserve, as far as possible, the orphans, the children of parents who are incapable of looking after their own offspring, or who have become criminals, in order that they have an opportunity to develop into sturdy, healthy men and women. Unless these children are given some special care, they will inevitably be lost to society.

The report of the Department indicates that during the year 1916 some 981 dependent children and 560 delinquents were brought under its care. The orphan is placed on the "placing out system." There are four shelters or temporary homes in the Province, maintained by the four largest cities. Wards of the Department are detained in these only for a brief time. There is no difficulty in securing good foster homes for all normal, well developed children. Institutions produce what is known as "the institutional type," a kind of dull spiritless machine, lacking initiative and strength of personality. A child develops normally under normal conditions, and the only normal condition for a child is in some good home.

The report indicates that war conditions have had an effect upon the delinquent problem. During the year, an increase of nearly 30 per cent. was noted over the preceding year. The reasons for this are given as follows—

1. Decrease in parental control owing to the absence of so many fathers.
2. The fact that so many male teachers for whom the boys had the greatest respect have joined the forces, and as a result little individual attention can be given.

3. The spirit of adventure is in the air, children hear from friends and relatives thrilling accounts of trench warfare and other excitements, and their love for imitation leads them into many offenses. Similar or greater increases have been noted in England and in other countries now at war.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The Red Deer School Board met in special session on Friday evening to consider the question of salaries for the next term. The Board believed the teachers were entitled to increases, as the scale was about what it was three years ago, and $100 extra will be offered to the four teachers of the higher grades, while ten teachers in the public schools were offered increases according to length of service.

The following communication was presented to the Board, but was not dealt with as the Board was called for special business. It was signed by all the teachers except Principal Locke, who was away conducting Whitist boy delinquency has increased nearly 30 per cent. there has been a slight decrease in the number of girl delinquents. A great deal of care is taken of the latter class. In the cities, the Children's Aid Societies provide Matrons who give them special supervision. Earning their own living under the care of a big sister, a great many of them are saved for themselves and society.

There are incorrigible boys and girls who have to be treated in institutions. For the present the boys are cared for in the Industrial Training School at Portage la Prairie, and the girls in one of the other of the Social Service Homes of the Province.

According to the report, there is needed at the present time in this Province, an institution to provide care and training for mental defectives, and a suitable institution for delinquent girls. The institution for mental defectives should provide for such training as will enable the majority of them to become practically self-supporting. Care of this class should not be confined to the children, but also to women of child bearing age. It is urged that an institution for delinquent girls provide for their segregation according to age and type, and for proper industrial training.

A perusal of the booklet indicates that the Department has received the hearty co-operation of a great number of individuals and societies interested in the problem of conserving the wastage of society.

examinations at Inglisfall. The letter read—

"We met in the Red Deer Advocate of June 15th that at the last meeting of the Red Deer School Board, the teachers in the city were charged with being demoralized during the recent elections. It is not stated whether some or all of the lady teachers were guilty, nor is it specified in what directions the demoralization was apparent, and so the public is left to draw conclusions which may be very unfair to all concerned. Such a statement might lead people to suppose that the teachers either neglected their school work because of politics, or they introduced into their schoolrooms political ideas having a demoralizing effect on the pupils. If the Board felt justified in making such charges, why did they not make them direct to the teachers rather than to the public at large through the medium of the press?"

"In justice to themselves, therefore, the teachers would be glad if the Board would kindly point out to them to what attitude and actions on the part of the teachers they took exception."

LOYALTY TO CANADA AND HER WORKSHOPS

Women Shoppers Can do Most For "Made-in-Canada" When They Are Making Purchases

The editor of the "Department Store Magazine," a United States publication, has a strong article on the "Made-in-America" movement, which is a feature of United States commercial life to-day. Speaking of the place that women occupy in the nation's purchasing, he says:

"Upon the great mass of intelligent American women, who daily stream through the doors of our forty-five hundred department stores, rests a heavy weight of responsibility. It is for them to say whether some of the greatest industries in the country shall suffer or whether they shall come through the crisis stronger and more prosperous than ever."

"America can make everything that is necessary to its life and happiness of any man or woman. The most luxurious and beautiful fabrics can be produced here. Our carpets and rugs imitate the cunning of the Oriental weaver and often surpass his work in originality of pattern. The furniture made in America is unsurpassed, and our glass and china compare favorably with the finest importations."

The remaining three paragraphs are also taken from Mr. Platt's article, but in each case we have substituted the word "Canada" for "America," as there is no doubt that what Mr. Platt says about the goods made in United States applies equally as well to those made in Canada. In fact there is an even greater reason why Canada should be loyal to the products of her own workpeople and her own workshops. Canada is a young country in the early stages of industrial development. It has a small population spread thinly over a large area. Unless all interests in Canada combine to promote the general welfare, our progress is sure to be much slower than we have been accustomed to during the future years of reconstruction which will inevitably follow the war.

Revised Version
"Made in Canada" should be the motto of every shopper who enters a store. It is more than a mere trade slogan; it is a precept of patriotism. "Made in Canada" means busy factories in Canada; it means happy working people in Canada; it means that pay envelopes to thousands of Canadian homes on Saturday night; it means the banishment of the bugaboo of hard times and the return of prosperity for all of us despite the war. And after the war is over it means a greater Canada than ever before, a Canada that will supply the world and reap the reward of a higher patriotism than that which is being voiced by European cannon.

All this can be accomplished if every purchaser who enters a store will choose Canadian-made goods. The great merchants are eager to meet this demand, and it is up to the shopper to see that the good things made in Canada do not lie idle on the shelves.

NEED IS REAL JOCKEYS

The American turf needs more real jockeys. There is a dearth of experienced running horse pilots and many good ponies fail to gain track success because of bad handling. In the halcyon days of the turf sport there was a superfluity of great jockeys, but when the boom ebbed, jockeys were thrown out of employment and followed other trades or professions. Since the revival it has become appallingly apparent that there are only a few or two of real riders in the land. The others who are classed as jockeys are farcical. Many of the boys riding these days are not even competent to gallop them in their work-outs. A jockey must be trained gradually to be a real success. But the bulk of the riders of to-day have jumped from the job of stable boy to the harness of thoroughbreds. These horse owners realize that their mounts are inefficiently handled—but they are getting the best boys possible.

The fault is that no real effort has been made to properly train boys for their important task of riding a race horse. The fault is being remedied by some owners who have employed expert trainers to educate their "rockies." The majority of horses are driven by jockeys; by boys whose lack of riding knowledge sends down to defeat many a good horse which, if properly handled, would be a consistent winner.

Garden Party

The Complimentary Garden Party given by E. Michener, M.P.P., at his home on Thursday evening last was a most enjoyable event.

The weather during the early part of the evening, particularly, was very bad and discouraged many who intended to go; yet there were about one hundred and fifty people who would not allow wind and rain to prevent their attendance. This company thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated the hospitality of our worthy leader and his family.

During the evening, solos were sung by Mrs. R. G. Dawe, Messrs. E. G. Johns and H. F. Kenny. Mrs. Dawe played her own accompaniment and also fully sustained her reputation as a vocalist. The Late Pte. Songhurst

Mr. and Mrs. Songhurst have just received from relatives and friends in England, communication in answer to questions re the death of their dear son, Syd, at Vimy Ridge. We think it speaks well for the whole heartedness of our country's interest in the cause of our noble volunteers. Syd was not quite 20 years of age when he fell, and had seen no other life save the farm one at Hill End where he was born, till he enlisted in 1915. Extracts of the letters written by his Captain of his regiment would no doubt interest his friends: "Pte. Songhurst was instantly killed by a big shell during the capture of Vimy Ridge on April 9th, when we lost so many of our gallant officers and men, and none better than Pte. Songhurst. He was one of our very best soldiers, and we can ill afford to lose men of his great ability and sterling worth. He was a brave soldier, and all his life he spent most highly of his ability, and his place is very hard to fill in our battalion. He was buried in the Military Cemetery near where we were on the 9th of April, and we have suitable crosses erected to mark the graves of our dead. We all very much regret the loss of our brave soldier, and tender the sincere sympathy of our Colonel and all our officers to his friends."
